Brawl at Guineas ends with arrests

Mystery: a "family" of gnomes have been taken into protective custody by police after they took up residence in the middle of Newmarket's controversial Clocktower roundabout. The five gnomes – two large ones and three smaller ones – turned up on Bank Holiday Monday. See story – Page 3.

A WOMAN police officer and a member of the racecourse security staff were hurt in a brawl at Newmarket's Guineas race meeting on Saturday.

Seven people were arrested after violence broke out reportedly involving a group from the Midlands and another group from the London area.

A policewoman is reported to have suffered a broken or dislocated knee and a member of racecourse security staff suffered a broken wrist. Both were taken to hospital for treatment.

The incident happened on the day that Suffolk's Chief Constable, Simon Ash, was visiting the racecourse to launch a new accreditation scheme which has given additional powers to racecourse security staff and parking attendants to "free up" police officers to deal with more serious crimes.

The brawl, which reportedly involved men and women, broke out just after 4.30pm – about two and a half hours after the Chief Constable presented accreditation certificates to the racecourse and its security and parking contractors in the winners' enclosure.

A Suffolk police spokesman said: "Seven men were arrested on suspicion of affray following a disturbance in a beer tent. They have all been released on police bail, two to return to Bury Police Station on June 19 and five on June 13."

They are a 28-year-old man from Dagenham, Essex, a 30-year-old from London, two 19-year-olds from Coventry, two 20-year-olds and a 17-year-old, all from Coventry.

Stephen Wallis, managing director of Newmarket Racecourses, said: "There was an incident quite late on. We responded with the police very quickly and seven people were arrested and removed."

"There were probably 15 people involved out of a crowd of 15,000. I wish it hadn't happened, but the thing is how quickly we reacted and how we tried to prevent it."

He said racecourse staff and police had been unable to prevent the incident which "flared up" quickly. He said CCTV footage of the incident had been viewed.

Attendance at the race meeting was down by around 12 per cent on last year with a crowd of 15,500 on Saturday and 11,600 on Sunday.

Band contest is in doubt

AN ANNUAL band contest may be postponed due to falling attendance.

The Newmarket Battle of the Bands, originally launched in 2001, has seen a sharp fall in audience numbers in the past two years.

Now the town council which supports the event, organised by a committee of local youngsters, is considering having a year's break from the event.

The Battle of the Bands Committee has suggested putting the next event off until April/May 2010 or changing the format to make it a general talent contest.

Previously the contest, staged at the Memorial Hall in the High Street, has attracted packed audiences for the three heats and a final.

But a switch of venue may also be on the cards – particularly if the town council's plans for refurbishing the hall go ahead.

The committee is hoping to raise £15,000 by staging a one-off event later this year to pay for new sound and lighting equipment which could be used at other events as well as the band contest.

Cllr Mick Jefferys, who chairs the town council's leisure services committee and is a teacher at Newmarket College, has offered to get the views of students at the college about the future of the band contest and report his findings back to the committee.

Festival gets under way

THE 24TH Bury St Edmunds Festival starts tomorrow.

The festival which encompasses music, theatre, comedy and poetry includes outdoor as well as indoor events and runs to May 24.

Full details are available by calling (01284) 769505 or by visiting the festival website.

Scoop for community centre as it opens ice cream parlour

A COMMUNITY centre has responded to the recession by opening its own ice cream parlour. The new venture at The Stable centre in Newmarket High Street opened on Saturday.

Nick Flack, chairman of the management committee at The Stable, said: "We're offering a service that's sadly lacking in the town – particularly since the closure of Woolworths."

"It's something I identified some months ago with the demise of the High Street and felt we needed some good news.

"Our cafeteria upstairs has been doing very well with several hundred people coming in a week and I've always felt we should do something with the ground floor area of The Stable. Hopefully we will get the support of local people."

He said the venture, which will be run by a mixture of volunteers and paid staff, was intended as a service to the town.

New racecourse deal frees up police officers

SECURITY and car park staff at Newmarket racecourse have been given extra powers to release police officers from duties they previously performed.

The move, in which the racecourse and its security and parking contractors have signed up to the Community Safety Accreditation Scheme, means that police officers will be freed from more mundane tasks like directing traffic and will be more able to take action against law-breakers and troublemakers.

The accreditation has been granted by Suffolk's Chief Constable Simon Ash and applies only to Newmarket's Rowley Mile racecourse, which is in Suffolk. The town's other racecourse, the July, is in Cambridgeshire and any accreditation for staff working there would have to be given by the county's Chief Constable Julie Spence.

Each accredited member of staff will have an identification card clearly setting out their powers.

A Suffolk police spokeswoman said: "Everyone accredited will be vetted to the same high standard as police officers and police staff."

City and Suburban Parking Limited has received accreditation to carry out traffic management on race days at the Rowley Mile course, including taking details in respect of traffic offences and powers to control traffic.

EventGuard has been granted the power to take details for traffic offences and anti-social behaviour.

Security staff can also seize alcohol and tobacco from those under age, and as part of their stewarding duties they will also enforce conditions of entry to the racecourse.

Insp Simon Clifton, based at Newmarket, said: "I welcome the accreditation of our partners at the Rowley Mile course."

"With City and Suburban Parking Limited and EventGuard taking responsibility for traffic control and some public order issues, officers are now freed up from those roles and can take on other tasks in Newmarket and elsewhere across the area.

"The officers who do remain on duty at the racecourse can carry out more proactive duties to make sure those who want to enjoy the racing do in a safe and fun environment, and anyone causing trouble is swiftly and firmly dealt with."

Accreditation certificates were formally presented by Suffolk's Chief Constable Simon Ash in the winners' enclosure at the Rowley Mile course on Saturday.

The scheme will allow police officers to concentrate on tackling problems such as drink-fuelled anti-social behaviour in streets near the town's night clubs, clamping down on drug dealing and under-age drinking.

Nearly quarter of vehicles targeted by thieves left unlocked

CARELESS motorists have been warned to take precautions after police revealed that nearly a quarter of all the vehicles stolen in the west Suffolk area in the past two months were left unlocked.

During that time thieves stole, or tried to steal, 224 vehicles across the area, which includes Newmarket, Mildenhall and Haverhill. But police said 53 needed no effort to get into because the windows, doors or boots were left unlocked.

Superintendent David Skevington said: "An unlocked vehicle is a gift to the opportunist thief, who can just open a door or boot or reach through a window to commit crime."

"Items such as sat navs, bags and stereos have all been stolen because the owner has either forgotten to lock their car or simply thinks that they won't be targeted."

"Where there has been a spate of vehicle crime in West Suffolk, officers are carrying out additional patrols to gather information, provide reassurance and deter thieves from committing further offences. But simply taking a minute to remove valuables from your vehicle and lock it could stop you becoming a victim of crime."

He appealed to anyone who saw any suspicious activity near parked vehicles to call police immediately.

He also asked for the public to tell them if they are approached by someone selling satellite navigation or stereo equipment in suspicious circumstances.

Chart topping: the Pussycat Dolls have been confirmed as the act for the remaining vacant slot in the Newmarket Nights programme.

Pussycat Dolls to kick off tour at racecourse

TOP girl group Pussycat Dolls will kick off their UK tour by appearing at Newmarket racecourse.

The chart-topping US group have been confirmed as the act for the remaining vacant slot in this summer's Newmarket Nights programme at the July racecourse.

They will perform after racing ends on Friday, July 17, joining a line-up for this year's series of seven shows which includes Boyzone, Simply Red, Status Quo and Scouting for Girls.

Tickets are expected to sell out rapidly for the show by the group who are rated as one of the biggest acts to play at the racecourse.

Together, the red-hot singing and dancing sensations, made up of lead singer Nicole Scherzinger, Melody

Thornton, Jessica Sutta, Ashley Roberts and Kimberly Wyatt have achieved worldwide success with their 2005 album PCD which produced the massive hits singles Don't Cha, Buttons, and Stickwitu, and earned the group a Grammy Award nomination.

Their second album Doll Domination has been in the UK charts for 23 weeks and includes their fourth single, Jai Ho! (You Are My Destiny) from the soundtrack of the hit movie, Slumdog Millionaire.

Stephen Wallis, managing director of Newmarket Racecourses, said: "I am absolutely delighted that the Pussycat Dolls have chosen Newmarket Nights as the opening night of their UK tour. Fans have been eagerly awaiting news of our last remaining night and I know that they will agree that the wait has been worthwhile."

Tickets for Newmarket Nights are now on sale and can be booked online at www.newmarketracecourses.co.uk

Object thrown from A14 bridge

A DRIVER escaped injury when a car's windscreen was smashed by an "object" hurled from a bridge over the A14.

The blue Rover car was being driven on the westbound carriageway at Newmarket just before 3pm on Sunday when the incident happened.

Police have appealed for information about anyone seen behaving suspiciously on a bridge over the road at the time.

Anyone with information should call Sgt Wayne Naylor at Newmarket police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Signs damaged by vandals

YOBS damaged promotional signs on the driveway entrance to Newmarket's Rowley Mile racecourse during the Guinness race meeting.

Seven signs, all standing eight feet tall were pushed over and damaged after the first day's racing on Saturday.

Anyone with information about the incident, which happened at about 7.30pm, should call Pc Gary Miller at Newmarket police station on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Police take gnomes into custody

MYSTERY surrounds the appearance of a "family" of gnomes in the centre of the controversial new traffic roundabout in Newmarket.

The five gnomes – two large ones – three smaller ones – appeared in the centre of the roundabout at the Clocktower junction at some time during Bank Holiday Monday together with a clock face and an African-style mask.

They were still in place on Tuesday morning until they were taken into custody by the police for safe keeping.

A Suffolk police spokeswoman said: "They have not been arrested. They are being kept with our found property at Newmarket police station until someone claims them or offers them a 'gnome' to go to."

Photos of the gnomes later appeared on a Facebook website started by opponents of the stone balls which were put on the roundabout as part of a design feature.

Adam Mills, who started the Facebook group which has been joined by around 1,200 people, said: "The gnomes were nothing to do with me."

"I'm trying to find out who put them there."

"They must have been put there by someone with a sense of humour."

Mr Mills, of Park Lane, Newmarket, said three police cars and a police van pulled up at the roundabout to take the gnomes away just before 1pm on Tuesday.

School project branches out

A SCHOOL has joined a new "Seed to Tree" project.

Pupils at Newmarket's Paddocks Primary School have teamed up with the Go Wild in Newmarket group and the Green Light Trust to plant a tree nursery in the school grounds.

They also received £150 from the Newmarket Lions Club towards the project.

Youngsters filled a time capsule which was buried before the first tree was planted.

Topsoil for the project was donated by G & A Cornwell of Wardy Hill, near Ely.

Go Wild in Newmarket has also been involved in starting a community woodland beside Newmarket's Riverside Walk – known locally as the Yellow Brick Road.

The organisation aims to create community owned wild spaces and pockets of woodland for the people of Newmarket to enjoy and to give children an opportunity to grow wild plants and learn about biodiversity.

Spare an hour or two for young people

There are lots of projects going on in your local and surrounding areas which have been set up by people who believe that the youngsters of today would really benefit from having somewhere safe to go in the evenings and to have something more useful to do with their time than hanging around the streets.

You could be part of the team who help young people to become more aware of their own community and responsibilities.

There are also organisations which run clubs for youngsters with learning disabilities to make sure they have the opportunity to have as much social and leisure inclusion in their community as other young people; this type of service also sometimes offers much needed respite for parents and carers, and these groups include Newmarket based Kidzone and larger organisations such as

All of these opportunities only require on average an hour or two of your time each week and it is a great opportunity to meet new people yourself, have a chance to do some real good for today's young people and to help the local community that belongs to all of us. # Police question two over fraud allegations

A MAN and a youth were arrested by police investigating allegations of rogue trading.

The pair, aged 43 and 16, and of no fixed address, were arrested after officers were called to Aureole Walk, on Newmarket's Studlands Park estate last Wednesday.

They were questioned about allegations of fraud after reportedly having carried out work at the property.

They were later released on bail to return to Bury St Edmunds police station on June 16.

Suffolk Trading Standards have warned householders, particularly the elderly, to be on their guard against bogus callers and rogue traders.

A spokesman said: "Any trader who calls at your door must comply with the law as to how to conduct their business.

"If a contract is to be agreed on the doorstep it must give a clear notice period for you to be able to cancel the contract, and if over £35 it must be in writing.

"If the work is to start within seven days this must be signed in agreement by the householder.

Where this agreement is not given or the contract is not in writing with a clear notice period, the contract is unenforceable and you are not obliged to pay. The trader has committed an offence if they fail to give a notice period.

"Rogue traders do target people, especially the elderly and vulnerable, on their doorsteps. They can carry out work without permission, or will quote a low price for work and then charge more afterwards.

"Sometimes payment can be demanded when no work has been carried out. Work is often substandard and not value for money.

"Cold callers can behave aggressively and intimidate their customers."

He warned people to ask for identification of any callers and to get alternative quotes from a reputable company for any work.

Anyone wanting advice should call Suffolk police on (01284) 774100 or 999 if a crime is being committed. Further advice is available on the Consumer Direct line 0845 4040506.

Dishwasher blamed for starting house fire

A FAULTY dishwasher is thought to have been the cause of a fire in a house in Burwell.

Crews from Swaffham Bulbeck and Burwell were called to the blaze in North Street shortly after 3.30am on Saturday.

Firefighters used breathing apparatus while they doused the flames, and had it under control by 4.40am.

Firefighters put out blaze in bushes

FIREFIGHTERS extinguished a blaze in a patch of bushes.

They were called to the fire on the Yellow Brick Road, Newmarket, shortly after 12.20pm on Sunday.

Champion's death 'huge loss' for disabled people

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

TRIBUTES have been paid to a champion of disabled people whose funeral took place last week.

Mervyn Peckham, 80, who had restricted mobility due to arthritis arising from injuries sustained in horseriding and rugby in his younger days, was a leading member of a number of organisations including the Forest Heath Locality Network for people with physical and sensory disabilities and the Gate-opener project.

He was also vice-chairman of the Newmarket-based Voluntary Network which runs Dial a Ride bus services.

David Ellis, a partner at Newmarket Equine Hospital, read a tribute to him on behalf of fellow partner Richard Greenwood at Mr Peckham's funeral at Bury St Edmunds crematorium.

Achieved results: champion for disabled people Mervyn Peckham.

Mr Peckham, of Fairlawns, Newmarket, worked with horses from an early age and served in the Army with the 14/20th King's Hussars as a tank commander.

He moved to the Newmarket area in 1967 when he became manager of Longholes Stud at Cheveley, and racing manager to owner Lady Durham.

In 1986 he went to the US to run a stud there before moving to run his own stud farm near Paris.

But his health problems led him to retire back to Newmarket in 1994. He had his left hip replaced three times and his right hip replaced four times.

Mr Ellis said of his work for people with disabilities: "His forthright approach, while not always popular, achieved results and was appreciated by those he was doing his best to represent."

Nick Flack, chairman of the management committee at The Stable community centre in Newmarket, said: "He is going to be a huge loss to the area for all the work he was doing for the disabled and those less fortunate."

He is survived by his wife Hazel and son Kevin, who works in Newmarket's racing industry.

In time, we will appreciate balls

Sir, I write in support of Newmarket Town Council's decision to drop its support for the campaign against the "Chinese Balls" and hail it as a victory for common sense and calm judgement in the face of a reactionary and vocal minority. Firstly, let us correct some of the claims concerning the Facebook group where "more than 1,200 people have joined to protest against the sculptures".

This group appears to have once been a general discussion group for Newmarket residents and "exiles", but underwent a name change to reflect the views of the group's creator. To insinuate that all 1,200 members are anti-sculptures is erroneous in the extreme. I would hazard a guess that the true level of support is closer to the 500 signatories to the Downing Street petition.

As for suggestions that we replace it with yet another statue celebrating the racing industry. Is this really necessary? Newmarket does have a long and proud association with Britain's racing industry, but surely we are more than a one-trick pony? We have more to offer, don't we? I have no doubt that at the time the Clocktower was built many residents of the town would have viewed it as a monstrous, vulgar folly, yet it is now a proud centrepiece of the High Street which we cherish. In time, once the misguided hullabaloo has died down, I am sure that we will grow to appreciate the Chinese ball structures in their own right.

Those voted in can be voted out

Sir, So, what has the Tory Suffolk County Council ever done for us? Well there's the roads. Yes, but apart from the roads. Well there's the schools. Yes, but apart from the schools. Well there's the balls. Yes, but apart from repeatedly and unsuccessfully redesigning the roads, closing our schools on the basis of false consultations and lack of evidence and creating a balls-up of the new roundabout... what have the Tory Suffolk County Council ever done for us?

We vote these people in to represent our views and if they are

Do we need a town council?

Sir, I have never met Councillor Jonathan Richer but it seems he is the only member of the town council to protest against the ridiculous idea of borrowing £1 million and saddling us with a debt for 50 years.

As your report says "there was no support for his move", so all the others support this monstrous waste of money in these hard-pressed times. Recent council decisions have been to oppose the building of much needed new homes which would of course have added to the council tax base and made keeping our hospital and schools easier. They also whipped up a fuss about the roundabout launched a petition and then backed down. Do we really need a town council at all, we would save a lot of money by abolishing it.

park who spent an hour cooking vegetable pizzas.

They were helped by Celebrity MasterChef champion Liz McClarnon.

The event was organised by home appliance brand Belling, which donated £1,000 of kitchen equipment to every school that took part.

Bottisham pupil Edward Good, 14, said it was "definitely an experience that I won't forget for a long time."

"Not only did we get the chance to be part of a Guinness World Record attempt, we also got to meet Liz who is a real inspiration and was great at guiding us through the recipe."

Footage of the event will now be sent to Guinness for official verification that the attempt was successful.

Day with the animals for students

YOUNGSTERS were able to get to know baby animals at a special farm and country fair for schools.

Newmarket's Fairstead House School was among those visiting the fair at the Suffolk showground near Ipswich as part of a Suffolk County Council-sponsored day.

A total of 23 children from the school's Years 3 and 4 took part in the visit and were able to see a two-week-old rare breed Red Poll calf as well as lambs, ducklings and chicks.

There was also a hunt parade, sheepdog and gundog demonstrations and sheep shearing.

The school has also visited Sheikh Mohammed's flagship Dalham Hall Stud, part of his Darley Stud Management horse breeding operation near Newmarket.

Toiletries worth £1,000 stolen by drug addict

A HEROIN addict stole more than £1,000 worth of toiletries from a supermarket in one day.

Daniel Binns, 25, cleared the toiletries aisle at Ely's Waitrose store by "sweeping" the goods into a hold-all, a court heard.

But it was not until one of the shop's managers later realised that the aisle was almost empty that police were alerted.

Laura Mardell, prosecuting, said: "At 11am on March 25, one of the supermarket's managers realised that the toiletries aisle was almost empty."

"CCTV showed Mr Binns sweeping his arm along the aisle and putting everything

BY JORDAN DAY

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

into a holdall, before leaving without paying. The value of the products stolen was £909.

"He then returned later that day to do exactly the same thing and almost got away with a further £158 worth of toiletries but he was confronted outside the store."

It was then that he admitted to police that he had stolen cosmetics from other stores in Ely.

Binns, of Beck Road, Isleham, pleaded guilty to two counts of shoplifting with other offences taken into consideration at Ely Magistrates' Court last week.

But Nick Barnes, mitigating, said Binns had been through a "difficult" time and had turned to heroin.

He said: "His mother had a triple heart bypass and while in hospital she caught MRSA - she is in a dire state."

"My client turned to heroin to help solve the issues and at the time of the thefts was in the thick of his addiction."

"He is now coming clean and looking ahead to the future."

Magistrates adjourned the case for a pre-sentence report to be prepared.

Binns will appear at the same courthouse on May 28.

He was released on unconditional bail.

Football dad's funeral to help first responders

Club stalwart: Neale Smith who collapsed while playing a game with friends.

A NEW group of emergency first responders will benefit from donations made at the funeral of a football-loving dad who collapsed and died while playing the game.

The funeral of Neale Smith, a founder of Burwell Tigers youth football team, was packed to capacity with standing room only at in the village's St Mary's Church last week.

His family asked for donations instead of flowers which will be shared between the new first responders scheme which is being set up by emergency doctor service Magpas and the club.

Mr Smith, 48, died two weeks ago while playing a game with friends on the astro turf pitch at the village's sports centre.

The father of three children was the first chairman of the Burwell Tigers which was formed in 1999. He was also the club coach for three seasons and more recently had been involved in fundraising for the club's new ground at Swaffham Prior.

He lived in Swaffham Road, Burwell, with his wife Alison and their children and worked as a business banking manager with Weatherbys Bank in Wellingborough.

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

He was also a member of Newmarket Round Table.

As a mark of respect the club has cancelled a party planned after its prize giving and has halted fundraising events.

Tracey Lemon, the club chairman, said: "He will be sadly missed. He was part of the club for a long time."

"The family kindly decided to split donations between the club and first responders."

"Hopefully they will be able to help people in the future."

Mrs Lemon added: "Neale was a very unassuming man, with a sometimes wicked sense of humour, but he was kindness itself when helping the boys to get the most out of their football."

"His presence in our club will be keenly missed, but I'm sure he will remain with us in spirit for many years to come. Neale Smith - a true Tiger."

Mr Smith is also due to be remembered with a trophy in his name and a memorial football match to be held at a future date.

The first responder scheme has already attracted volunteers who need to be trained to provide 24-hour coverage to act to save lives.

Drug user had 10 times lethal dose

A DRUG user was found to have 10 times the lethal dose of heroin in her body after her death.

Louise Todd, 43, was found dead by her partner at the flat they shared in Armstrong Close, Newmarket.

A post-mortem examination revealed that she had 10 times the level known to be fatal, the inquest into her death heard.

Dr Peter Dean, the Suffolk coroner, recorded an open verdict at the Bury St Edmunds inquest.

He said: "What we don't know from evidence is whether this was a tragic accident and whether she had unintentionally injected something of higher strength than she had expected or whether this was an intentional act."

He said her death was caused by drug toxicity.

Her partner Vincent Plumb found her body on the night of October 30 last year and called the police.

Mr Plumb told police that Miss Todd had previously been a heroin user, but he believed she had stopped using drugs when they first started seeing each other.

After they moved in together he found needles in the flat and they argued when he questioned her about her drug use.

The coroner said he told police she had been prescribed methadone, a substitute used to wean users off heroin.

But he said she was not supervised in taking the prescription.

Crackdown sees over 700 speeders caught

MORE than 700 motorists were caught speeding during a week-long campaign in Suffolk.

The campaign, lead by Tispol - the European Traffic Police Network, saw a countywide increase in checks and enforcement as officers clamped down on speeding drivers.

The majority of motorists were given fixed penalty fines and three points on their licences. But others, particularly those with bad driving records, will face court prosecution.

Police officers caught 637 drivers and a further 82 were caught by fixed cameras.

In a similar campaign in April last year 1,848 motorists were caught speeding, in 2007 the figure was 954.

Despite the drop in the number of those caught, Insp Alex Morrison, from Suffolk's roads policing unit, said: "We have caught fewer drivers speeding but I'm still disappointed that so many drivers have failed to listen to our warnings. There are still too many drivers who don't seem to realise the impact driving at excessive speeds can have.

"There were 31 people killed on Suffolk's roads last year and the role speed plays in both fatal and serious road traffic collisions cannot be underestimated."

"During this campaign we have tried to educate those who speed through enforcement. It is a very simple message but a very important one, speed kills and by targeting those who are speeding we hope we can save lives."

Change in tactics: commander of the 48th Fighter Wing, Colonel Jay Silveria.

'Friendly fire' lessons are already in action

AN AMERICAN Air Force commander has said that lessons learned from a "friendly fire" incident in which three British soldiers died are already being put into practice – in advance of the publication of an official report into the deaths.

Three members of the Royal Anglian Regiment were killed in Afghanistan in August 2007 when they were mistakenly bombed by an American jet from the Lakenheath base which was supposed to be supporting them.

Now Colonel Jay Silveria, commander of the base's 48th Fighter Wing, has said that changes had already been made in tactics in a bid to avoid a repetition of the incident which happened before he took command last autumn.

"On a tactical level we have pulled as much as we can from that incident to check our training and make sure everybody is prepared," he said.

The base currently has more than 800 personnel and around 20 F-15E

Strike Eagle planes operating in Iraq and Afghanistan. The majority are due to return this month.

Before air crews left for the deployment in December, they took part in an exercise with British ground controllers – a role previously carried out by Prince Harry during his tour of duty in Afghanistan.

Col Silveria, 46, a pilot whose 24 years service has included a period in Afghanistan, said: "Regardless of the outcome of the official investigation this was a chance to go through and recheck that we're doing everything right."

"It is best to learn here in a low-stress environment."

He said he understood the investigation into the incident was now complete. But publication of the official report was subject to co-ordination between British and US governments.

Last month a bomb disposal expert from the base, Staff Sgt

Phillip Myers, 30, was killed by an "improvised explosive device" in Afghanistan. Col Silveria had just returned from attending the NCO's funeral in the USA.

He said the death brought home the dangers of operating in a hostile environment.

"There is a lot of preparation before we send people to Afghanistan or Iraq and you want to know they're ready before they go," he said.

"Everybody we send from the Wing is doing a fantastic job. They are performing well and repeatedly saving lives."

"Our F-15s are engaged every day in supporting ground troops and destroying targets."

For Col Silveria, his appointment at Lakenheath has been something of a homecoming.

He graduated from the base high school when his father was stationed there. During his own air force career he has been based at Lakenheath in the mid 1990s, 2000 and 2006.

His current two-year appointment is expected to continue until the autumn of 2010.

First exhibition in town for artist

ARTIST Peter Welch is staging his first exhibition at Newmarket library in 50 years as an artist.

Mr Welch, 75, has previously staged six exhibitions in East Anglia including Cambridge where his work was spotted by the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds.

That exhibition in 1976 resulted in him being commissioned by the RSPB for the next 12 years.

Mr Welch, of Frowd Close, Fordham, has also exhibited in his home village. But this month's show at Newmarket library is his first in the town.

As well as birds, his other favoured subjects include aircraft and landscapes.

For the past 21 years he has run community art classes at Burwell and Soham Village Colleges as well as running workshops for other artists.

Bid to end mixed-sex wards in hospitals

MORE than £10 million will be spent on eliminating mixed-sex accommodation in hospitals in the East of England, the Government has said.

More than half of the projects in hospitals and mental health facilities relate to the provision or refurbishment of bathrooms and toilets. But other schemes include creating new wards, partitioning day rooms to prevent them overlooking sleeping areas, and creating female-only lounges.

New screens, partitions and signage will be funded by the £10.3 million cash boost, announced on Tuesday by Alan Johnson, the Health Secretary.

Mr Johnson said: "We have made great progress, however our message is clear – over the coming months we only expect to see mixed-sex accommodation where it is clinically justified and from next year those trusts who fail in this duty will be financially penalised."

"It is simply unacceptable for top quality treatment by our finest surgeons, doctors and nurses to be undermined by a sub-standard mixed-sex environment that patients find unsettling, uncomfortable and undignified."

Teenagers a pair of Guiding lights

TWO teenage girls who have been awarded nearly £60,000 to set up and run a special unit of the Guides for disabled girls are early entrants in the new Cambridge Building Society Young People of the Year (YOPEY) competition.

Nineteen-year-old Rachel Copping, of Wragg Drive, Newmarket, and 16-year-old Helen Mannell, of Chippenham Road, Moulton, belong to Cambs East Rangers, the unit for the oldest Guides in Cambridge and surrounding towns and villages.

This year's YOPEY is supported by the Cambridgeshire Constabulary, Cambridge Building Society, Sawston stationery firm Spicers, Cambridge University Press, Cambridge technology companies CSR and ARM, and Huntingdon computer company EACS.

It also has the endorsement of Prime Minister Gordon Brown who calls YOPEY "a wonderful celebration of Britain's youth."

Rachel and Helen were awarded £49,000 by Cambridgeshire County Council's Youth Bank last month towards the new unit they have called SPICE - Special People In Cambs East. This followed earlier grants of £5,700 from the Youth Bank and £500 from the High Sheriff of Cambridgeshire for SPICE.

Rachel, who is at Leicester University, and Helen, who attends Newmarket College, impressed the youth bank because they had interviewed the families of disabled girls to discover what they wanted.

"We're hoping to make Guiding as easy for disabled girls as it is for able girls," said Helen.

Rachel, who will be one of the new unit's Guiders, and Helen, who will be a Young Leader, have planned a year of activities for disabled girls some of whom have not previously been able to join the Guides.

Starting with a launch party, the activities include a holiday, a trip to London, and swimming and bowling nights out. The disabled members will be provided with an able-bodied Guide as a buddy on each of the trips.

As the new disabled members can come from all over Cambridgeshire and the surrounding area and many are too severely disabled to attend their local Guide unit, SPICE will be a "lone" unit and not have a permanent base.

However most of the £60,000 is being spent on a permanent sensory garden at the Guides' Jarman Centre in Duchess Drive, Newmarket, which is being redeveloped by the Guide movement.

"Someone else is doing the inside, we're doing the outside," said Helen.

Rachel and Helen were part of a group of seven Guides who were finalists in last year's YOPEY for putting on a holiday for girls with special needs.

Helen said: "We didn't win

because we didn't help as much as some of the other finalists. Taking part inspired Rachel and I to do more."

Many of the other Ranger Guides will still be involved as buddies to disabled girls on trips and will help run activities.

A spokeswoman for Cambs East Guides said: "Rachel and Helen have extended their work with special needs children beyond belief."

"They are remarkable in what they set out to achieve for the benefit of others. They both have a passion and belief in what they do for the benefit of other girls less able than themselves. It is completely their choice to do what they do. They are not related to any of the girls that they help."

Rachel said: "It makes me feel proud that the girls will get so much out of this because we worked with their families to discover what they wanted."

This is the third successive year that a YOPEY has been held to cover all of Cambridgeshire and surrounding area.

Rachel and Helen are now in line to win a top prize of £1,000 out of a total prize pot of £2,000.

YOPEY was founded by Tony Gearing, a former newspaper journalist and father-of-three who was tired of the "bad press" young people receive.

"Sadly, too many adults today believe the headlines sum up young people, and that the role models for today's youth are binge-drinking, drug-taking, violent hoodies," he said.

"The truth is only a minority are anti-social, so YOPEY puts fantastic young people in the headlines, so that they can be positive role models."

Do you know a young person who goes that extra mile to help others and deserves recognition and the chance to win a cash prize? Nominees must be aged between 10-25, live, study, or work in Cambridgeshire, and give to others in this country or abroad.

To nominate log on to www.yopey.org or write to Young People of the Year, PO Box 103, Hare Street, Ware, SG9 0XD, enclosing an SAE, for an entry form. Young people can nominate themselves.

Firm faces fuel leak charge

A COMPANY accused of causing a leak of thousands of gallons of aircraft fuel at an American base is facing trial next week.

The case against electrical company T Clarke (Midlands) Ltd is due to start on Monday at Ipswich Crown Court.

The company, based in south London, is accused of causing poisonous, noxious or polluting matter – namely JP8 aviation fuel – to enter groundwater at the Mildenhall base on or about April 20, 2007.

The company has previously denied the charge brought by the Environment Agency.

The incident is alleged to have happened when an underground fuel pipe was punctured during a drilling operation under an aircraft taxiway at the base where new electrical cables were being installed.

In our weekly column, reporter JOHN GOODE takes a look behind the racing scene to bring you news from in and around the stables.

Concern over handling of recession

THE Government's handling of the recession "does not inspire confidence", the head of Newmarket's racehorse sales has said.

Edmond Mahony, chairman of racehorse auctioneers Tattersalls, made the comment after the latest sales – the Guineas Breeze Up – when total sales were down by nearly £11 million on the previous year.

A total of 74 horses were sold for £29.6 million with an average price paid of just over £40,000.

Last year 80 horses were sold at the same sale for a total of £40.2 million with an average price of more than £50,000.

Mr Mahony said he was satisfied with the result of the sale which included more six-figure sales than last year.

But he said: "Looking ahead, however, it is hard to find positives following the Chancellor's recent announcement of a significant increase in the highest rate of income tax.

"To date the bloodstock industry has demonstrated healthy resilience in the face of adversity and we will continue to explore as many ways as possible to attract buyers to Tattersalls, but realistically the present Government does not inspire confidence for the immediate future."

Horse racing fraternity pays tribute to former trainer who died, aged 76

TRIBUTES have been paid to former racehorse trainer Ron Sheather who died on Sunday.

Mr Sheather, 76, trained at Newmarket's Park Lodge Stables for 11 years and is best known for his handling of champion sprinter Chief Singer in the early 1980s.

Former jockey Ray Cochrane, who rode Chief Singer to victory four times, said: "Basically I wouldn't have been heard of if it hadn't been for Ronnie."

"He had faith in me when I was a struggling jump jockey and put me on a classic horse."

Trainer: Ron Sheather.

"He was a great man," Jeff Smith, who owned Chief Singer, described Mr Sheather as "a wonderful person and a terrific man all round".

Other tributes were paid by fellow trainers David Elsworth and James Eustace, who currently trains from Park Lodge stables.

Mr Sheather, who lived in Crookfords Road, Newmarket, was the son of a stable groom and started his racing career as a jockey.

He was seriously injured in a car crash in America but later returned to Britain to ride in flat races for about 10 years.

After leaving the sport to run a pub, he returned to racing as an assistant trainer before becoming a trainer in his own right in 1978.

He retired from training in 1989 but continued as racing manager to Mr Smith.

A private funeral for family and close friends will be held on Monday.

His widow, Audrey, said the family would appreciate donations to St Nicholas Hospice at Bury St Edmunds where he died. Donations should be made through funeral directors Southgate of Newmarket.

Residents told of homes plans

RESIDENTS packed a meeting where town councillors were due to hear details of plans by the Jockey Club for a housing development.

Around 70 people whose homes back on to the site of the proposed housing scheme, off Hamilton Road, Newmarket, crowded into a meeting of the development and planning committee on Tuesday.

Residents of Sefton Way, Leaders Way, Churchill Avenue and Drinkwater Close are among those opposing the plans for what is being called the Racing Village.

Jockey Club Estates has linked up with Cambridge-based developers Hill Residential to carry out the scheme which is due to include the replacement of existing racing industry homes at Philipps Close as well as building on land close to an existing racehorse exercise track.

Nearly 170 homes are proposed with about half of them intended for commercial sale. The other half, which includes 18 flats, are due to be for rent by people employed in the racing industry.

But the scheme is also facing opposition from trainers based in Hamilton Road which is due to be upgraded for part of its length to take the extra traffic from the development.

One of them, David Lanigan, told the meeting: "Traffic in Hamilton Road is already bad enough without the extra traffic going past the horses. This is pretty much unacceptable."

William Gittus, managing director of Jockey Club Estates, said measures to stop "rat running" through Hamilton Road were planned.

Cllr Richard Fletcher, who chairs the committee, said there would be further opportunities to comment on the scheme when an application for planning permission was submitted.

Free compost offer at waste site

COMPOST made from recycled garden and kitchen waste will be available free of charge from the council waste site in Mildenhall at the weekend.

The give-away coincides with Compost Awareness Week and has been arranged by Suffolk County Council with suppliers Viridor Waste Management and County Mulch.

Householders can collect the compost, suitable for use as a soil improver, by taking their own bags and shovels to the waste site at Mildenhall off the A1065 where there was a similar give-away session last weekend.

But there is not a similar free compost session planned at the Newmarket waste site in Depot Road.

Floral art show at next club meeting

A FLORAL demonstration titled Art for Art's Sake will be given at Burwell and District Flower Club's meeting on Thursday, May 14.

Demonstrator Robin White, from Faversham, Kent, will create floral arrangements at the meeting at Burwell Village College.

The meeting is open to non-members and tickets, which include drinks and canapés, are available at £10 by calling (01638) 601545.

Flowers to bring light to demonstration

A FLORAL demonstration titled Northern Lights will be given at Dullingham Flower Club's next meeting on Thursday, May 14.

Helen Hillier will give the demonstration at the Taylor Hall in Dullingham starting at 8pm.

Admission charges are £3 for members and £4 for non-members and include refreshments.

For more information call (01638) 507658.

No further police action against two after crash

POLICE inquiries are continuing into a crash in which a Range Rover ended up in a field last month.

Two men questioned following the incident, on March 16, between Newmarket and Exning, have been told they face no further action.

But a 33-year-old man is continuing to be the subject of inquiries.

The crash happened as the Range Rover was being followed by a police car after it allegedly failed to stop for a police officer.

Animal Health Trust runners: Oliver Foreman and Marie O'Brien with their medals.

Runners raise over £100,000

MORE than £100,000 was raised for the Animal Health Trust (AHT) by five runners who completed the Flora London Marathon.

Two members of staff at the Kentford-based trust were among the runners. They were Marie O'Brien, senior secretary and administrator, and Oliver Foreman, genetics research assistant.

Three other runners were raising money for the AHT.

They were Robert Webbon, son of chief executive Dr Peter Webbon, Laura Hudson, whose dog has been treated in the charity's small animal centre, and animal lover Jolene Hammonds.

They expected to collect around £102,400 from sponsors.

The cash will help pay for the trust's work and research into diseases and disorders affecting dogs, cats and horses.

Decision to be made on wine warehouse

CONTROVERSIAL plans for a wine warehouse at a busy road junction were still being supported this week by council officials – despite opposition to the scheme.

Councillors last month indicated that they were "minded" to refuse planning permission for national chain Majestic Wine to build a retail warehouse at Newmarket's Clocktower road junction.

Under Forest Heath District Council rules, the issue had to be reconsidered before a decision was reached.

The company wants to build a 412 square metre building on the site of the closed-down ATS tyre depot at the junction of Bury Road and Old Station Road.

The scheme includes the demolition of neighbouring derelict cottage Heath House.

Newmarket Town Council, the Save Historic Newmarket action group and Tattersalls the racehorse auctioneers had objected to the scheme on the grounds that they disliked the design and size of the proposed building while welcoming Majestic's investment in the town.

They had argued that the building would not fit in with the historic Clocktower, built to mark Queen Victoria's Jubilee.

Members of the district council's planning committee, who were due to meet yesterday, were being advised to approve the scheme.

But a report to the committee had said that refusal of planning permission on design grounds could be supported if Majestic took the issue to an appeal.

The report by planning officer Rachel Almond suggested that refusal could be supported on grounds that the new building would be out of character with the Newmarket conservation area. Her report also suggested that the council could resist the demolition of Heath House.

Multicultural melting pot: from Polish Pogues to African beats

FROM Congolese rumba orchestras to displays of Chinese fan dancing, Cambridge is embracing all things multi-cultural for its annual Heart Of The World Festival this month.

Now in its fourth year, the festival's month-long programme of events includes live music, club nights, film screenings, workshops, exhibitions and outdoor celebrations, all featuring both local and international participants, and all celebrating global diversity.

"It's such a great festival because it brings everyone together," says event manager Frances Alderton. "This year there's a much wider programme as we've extended it from two weeks to four, and all the top venues are taking part, including the Corn Exchange, The Junction, The Arts Picturehouse, and a lot of pubs and smaller venues, which is great."

"It's a fantastic opportunity to see artists that you wouldn't necessarily see, and there really is something for everybody – all age groups, all tastes. It'll be a great atmosphere, so come along and sample something different."

Here's our guide to the festival highlights:

■ City Celebrations

A free "taster day" for the whole festival, events will feature local and international artists, workshops, stalls and family activities. The celebrations will take place between 11am and 5pm on Christ's Pieces and Parker's Piece on Saturday.

■ The Buskers and Street Performers' Festival

A variety of buskers including musical groups, solo guitarists, dance acts, African drummers and comedy magicians will be performing throughout the city centre between 11am and 5pm from today to Saturday.

Feast of sound: the Warsaw Village Band are among the acts playing this month's Heart Of The World festival in Cambridge.

■ Warsaw Village Band, Wednesday at 7.30pm, Cambridge Corn Exchange. Tickets £13.50 from www.cornex.co.uk/ (01223) 357851.

Dubbed "The Polish Pogues", the band play an eclectic mix of roots, folk, world and ethno.

■ Mose Fanfan, Friday from 7pm, St Paul's Centre, Hills Road. Tickets £10 to £20 from (01223) 511511.

Mose Fanfan will be leading a nine-piece rumba dance orchestra to celebrate 60 years of Congolese rhythm. The evening will begin with a dance class at 7pm, and will follow with music from at 9pm.

■ Daphna Sadeh & The Voyagers, Saturday

at 8pm, The Junction. Tickets £11 in advance from www.junction.co.uk/ (01223) 511511.

Headed by composer and double bass player Daphna Sadeh, The Voyagers produce world music in its truest sense by combining Eastern European, Jewish and Middle Eastern sounds.

■ Yann Tiersen, Wednesday at 8pm, The Junction. Tickets £14 in advance from www.junction.co.uk/ (01223) 511511.

The man behind the soundtracks of acclaimed films Amélie and Goodbye Lenin, Yann Tiersen's shows involve him leaping from instrument to instrument – often playing more than one at a time.

Tale of messing about on the river is a classic

THE mischievous tale of Three Men in a Boat is sculling its way to Ely next Thursday. As part of the Bury Theatre Royal rural tour, the much-loved original is taking over The Maltings by the city's Riverside. Theatre-goers will be able to enjoy the lazy pace of sculling down the river in Victorian England with George, Harris and J on a misadventure-filled trip along the Thames. Fans of the classic Jerome K. Jerome book can be assured that it features all the charm and wit of the original tale. Tickets are £10 and the performance starts at 7.30pm.

The show will also be visiting Witcham on Friday, May 15, and Thriplow on Saturday, May 16.

For tickets and more information, call (01353) 616991.

Poignant drama set in New York park brings home the point

ON hearing, for the first time, the title of the play one naturally has the preconceived idea of something, somewhere between The Golden Girls, and Waiting for God. However, as always, it's best not to have this idea stored up, but to go along and discover first-hand, this very different comedy by John A.

Penzotti, directed by Debbie Saldana. The stage is transformed into a corner of Washington Park Square in New York, which is the daily rendezvous for these five ladies, who in their late seventies, share memories, thoughts, witticisms, strengths and very obvious physical weaknesses, with the passing of the years. By the very fact of their ages, they grew up through times of racial prejudice, somewhat repressive childhoods, and long before the dawning of gay liberation.

It is a poignant drama, peppered throughout with slick one-liners, and forever bringing home the point, that behind that blue rinse, there is a real person, who has lived, loved, and longed for recognition, and not just bound for the nearest rest home.

Acoustic duo

ACOUSTIC duo Dave Ellis and Boo Howard will play Cambridge's CB2 Bistro on Saturday night. The folk couple have been performing together for 30 years since meeting in 1979. Dave is known for his unique guitar style and Boo for her exceptional voice. Local musician Alex Highton will be making a return visit to the restaurant and café to provide the support act for the main event. Describing himself as a wannabe Harry Nilsson' his last performance was well received at the last acoustic night. The gig starts at 8.30pm and entry costs £5 on the door at the Norfolk Street venue.

Eastern sounds

A FREE music event will be held at Kettle's Yard in Cambridge this Sunday. Lecturers and students from Anglia Ruskin University will join special guests to perform One Hundred and Twenty-seven Haiku. The concert will combine music and art with computer technology to generate new sounds alongside acoustic instruments. Japanese Haiku poetry's brevity with a strict, formal structure will be the starting point for the music in this production, which begins at noon at the Castle Street venue.

Dixieland jazz

NEW Orleans will visit The Ranch tonight with the Freddie and Friends Jazz Quartet. The band will be performing traditional New Orleans and Dixieland Jazz at Cambridge's newest restaurant from 8.30pm – 11pm. They include Andy Moran on cornet, Roger Bacon on clarinet, Jim Hawthorn on string bass and Freddie Whipp on banjo. Admission is free. To book a table call (01223) 322722.

BY EMMA HIGGINBOTHAM

THERE aren't many award-winning architects who'd give up a high-profile career to risk it all as a cabaret singer, but since donning the red lipstick six years ago, Camille O'Sullivan hasn't looked back.

Now hailed as the "queen of contemporary cabaret", the Irish chanteuse, who was nominated for Best Female Vocalist at the Irish Music Awards this year, is about to embark on a UK tour with her new show, The Dark Angel – and plays The Junction in Cambridge next Wednesday. With her deep, sultry voice, Camille is best known for her distinctive style of performing "song stories", dramatic interpretations of the works of musicians ranging from Kurt Weill and Jacques Brel to David Bowie and Tom Waits, in which she acts out the roles of the characters in the lyrics. This unique method, once described as "part West End show, part comedy sketch, part glamorous burlesque act" has become something of a legend, and her shows are always packed.

Recent performances in Edinburgh and London, as well as tours of Australia and New Zealand earlier this year, have been sell-outs. But it almost didn't happen at all. The daughter of an Irish racing driver and a French mother, Camille was brought up in Ireland and studied architecture at University College, Dublin, winning a first class degree with the college's highest mark for 10 years. She went on to win the Architectural Association of Ireland Award in 2000, but, while working in Berlin, became hooked on the city's cabaret clubs and yearned to do it professionally. A near-fatal road accident decided it: hospitalised for a year, Camille gave up architecture to dedicate herself to cabaret. Since taking that decision, she has built herself an international reputation, and has appeared on BBC TV's Later With Jools Holland to great acclaim. She's also carving her niche in the acting world, having been in the films Over the Edge, November Afternoon and the Oscar-nominated Mrs Henderson Presents, as well as theatrical productions of One Night Stand, Tonight Lola Blau and Stephen Sondheim's Sweeney Todd. But it's in cabaret that Camille's heart truly lies: "Cabaret has naff connotations," she once said. "People think it's all bowler hats, fishnets, corsets and sexy singing, just a form of sexual light entertainment. It is much more serious than that. The cabaret artists I like take risks they don't want just to please the audience with pretty songs from the past. Wedding bands can do that."

■ Camille plays The Junction on Wednesday, May 13 at 8pm. Tickets cost £17.50 in advance from www.junction.co.uk or (01223) 511511.

Give gardens a new look with right pots

If you've lost lots of your old terracotta pots to the frost this winter, it may be time to perk up your patio with some new containers.

However, think carefully before buying and consider the style of your property and garden. If you don't, you could end up with a disastrous mish-mash of colours and designs.

If you have an old, traditional house and matching garden, it makes sense to stick with classic materials such as stone or terracotta, while a modern setting may require stainless steel, coloured concrete, zinc or aluminium.

Dramatic black glazed pots, with stand-alone specimens such as a cordyline or date palm, can look stunning in a contemporary setting and are widely available, while troughs and pots made of metal can also look good in minimalist gardens.

You can get away with a variety of brightly coloured glazed pots (check out B&Q's range of rainbow glazed pots, starting at £1.98 – www.diy.com) in a modern setting to brighten up a corner, but generally it's better to stick to one style and finish if you don't want the patio to look messy.

Don't buy pots on a whim, as there simply may not be a natural place to put them. You may actually find they look better without any plants in them.

Small gardens don't restrict you to small pots. In fact, large pots and plants in a small garden will create much more drama and

by Hannah Stephenson

impact than having everything below eye level.

There are pros and cons with whatever you choose. Terracotta pots, even if they are frost-proof, have a tendency to crack and chip and are porous, which means you will need to water the plants regularly to stop them drying out.

However, terracotta pots can achieve that weathered look quickly because algae and moss soon grow on the outer surface.

Glazed ceramic containers come in a huge range of colours and are not porous, so you'll need to stand them on pot feet to ensure adequate drainage.

Galvanised metal containers, which look great in modern settings, are poor insulators, so compost and roots may be baked in hot weather and frozen in winter. This is where glass fibre pots, which look like metal, may be a better bet.

Wooden troughs and tubs are widely available (for best value look at the Argos wooden trough planter for £12.99) and have a natural look, which enables them to blend into most informal garden schemes. They are of moderate durability and do better if you line them with a thick plastic sheet such as a pond liner, puncturing it to allow for drainage.

Alternatively, treat the container with a preservative that doesn't harm plants and stand the tub on bricks or feet to help drainage.

Wood is also frost-resistant and insulates plants from extreme heat and cold.

If you have trouble lifting heavy pots and are on a tight budget, plastic is the obvious choice. Sankey's Verona pot range comes in royal blue and wine red (available in two sizes, from £16.99, call (01159) 277335 or visit www.sankey.com) and has a five-year UV resistant guarantee.

However, a more stylish choice can be found in a range of other materials including fibreglass and resin, which aren't too heavy but can create a stunning look.

Contemporary square top plant pots are available in a variety of colours and, being made from resin, they are lightweight, weather resistant and shatterproof (www.greenfingers.com, £14.99, 0845 345 0728).

If blue is your colour, look out for a bell jar (from £129.99 at www.crocus.co.uk) designed by Brighton sculptor Bill Harling, which looks like weather-beaten copper but is made from fibre glass and resin. It's also frost-proof. For a contemporary setting a faux aluminium Geo round pot (£69.99 from www.crocus.co.uk) may also do the trick.

Consider where you are going to put your pots before you choose the containers.

Plastic is light, easy to move and can be easily disguised with metallic paint or hidden by trailing plants.

Wood, terracotta and stone are good root insulators and so are perfect for plantings in full sun or exposed settings. Metal doesn't do so well in sunny spots as it will quickly heat up the compost and roots inside, although you can put the plant in a different smaller container and plunge this into your metal pot lined with damp compost to help protect it.

BEST OF THE BUNCH
– Tulip

There are so many different varieties of tulip in a myriad of colours, from whites and yellows to orange, red and deep purple – no garden should be without them.

If you like fussy and frilly, go for the parrot types, while the classic single, large, strong-stemmed varieties are dominated by the Darwin hybrids. I love the dwarf types such as Red Riding Hood, a Greigii hybrid with striped green and purple leaves, and the single late variety Queen of Night, which produces deep maroon blooms in late spring.

Tulips need well-drained, fertile soil in a sunny site. Bulbs should be planted 10-15cm (4-6in) deep in late autumn and protected from excessive wet. Most should be lifted when the foliage has died after flowering, although some, such as Kaufmanniana and its hybrids can be left in the ground for several years to flower again.

SPECIAL READER OFFER

Super Fruit Collection

Exotic Super Fruits with great health benefits!

If you're passionate about healthy eating and are looking for some tasty new fruits to add to your "five a day", why not try these new unusual selections. Goji berries are rich in vitamins and minerals and are a great source of antioxidants with up to 500 times more vitamin C than an orange by their weight. The tasty honey berry fruits are just like blueberries and can be enjoyed fresh, or baked in jams, pies and muffins. The fruits ripen in early June, in the first or second year of planting and will continue to do so year after year up to 75 years!

please return the product in good condition to Van Meuwen within 14 days of delivery, requesting either a full refund or an exchange. Your contract for supply of goods is with Van Meuwen. Offer Expires June 30, 2009

Now is the time to apply for redundancy insurance

LOCAL estate agent Your Move Lattimores is highlighting the need for consumers to act sooner rather than later in applying for redundancy insurance before premiums go up and more stringent restrictions are applied.

The cost of insurance that protects against redundancy, as well as accident and sickness (ASU Insurance), can cost less than £20 per month to cover a typical £590 per month mortgage payment but is set to rise as demand increases in line with the current economic crisis.

Iain Lattimore of Your Move Lattimores in Newmarket commented:

"Understandably, until now, many people may have believed that insurance, such as ASU insurance, was a luxury as opposed to a necessity but we know policyholders who have already benefited from this protection and who have a very different view.

"The fact that UK unemployment figures are likely to rise means more and more people are now seriously under threat of redundancy – as well as having the constant threat of possible accident or sickness that could affect their income. It's therefore inevitable that insurance companies have, and will, face high numbers of claims on protection policies, like ASU, and that eventually they will have to increase premiums and apply greater restrictions to reduce the amount of money they are paying out.

"We are therefore suggesting that people seek further information about such policies as soon as they can and, at the same time, review any protection insurance they may already have. On some policies, for example, premiums have actually dropped or new, more comprehensive products, have been introduced which existing policyholders may not be aware of and which may offer immediate premium savings.

"As an example, if someone has stopped smoking they may see a reduction in their premiums which they may not have anticipated – it simply makes sense to see if cost savings can be made and now, we believe, is the time to do it."

To find out more about ASU insurance or other protection policies and take advantage of a free Your Move Protection Review Service, visit Your Move in Newmarket or call them on (01638) 660303.

YOUR GUIDE TO MOVING HOME

1 Moving home can be a complicated business and, in the hectic run to the big day, it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Property News offers their readers this handy checklist that should help avoid major pitfalls. We suggest you tick off the items as you deal with them...

WITH FOUR WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move.
- ☐ Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Notify British Telecom and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Arrange for change of address cards to be printed.

WITH TWO WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Confirm all arrangements, times etc, for meter readings, disconnections and reconnections, with authorities and with your buyer and seller.
- ☐ Make sure you have a good stock of packing materials, including sturdy boxes and plenty of string and sticky tape.
- ☐ Begin to throw out unwanted items from attics, wardrobes. What you really don't want you may as well dump now, or send to charity. It's a great time for a good sort out!

WITH ONE WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Send off change of address cards.
- ☐ Arrange and pay for automatic redirection of your mail by the Post Office.
- ☐ Cancel and pay up accounts for routine delivery services such as milk, groceries, fuel and your Cambridge Evening News. Re-organise these deliveries for your new address.
- ☐ Defrost refrigerators in preparation for move and, if you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

WITH ONE DAY TO GO:

- ☐ Complete your packing except for those items you are likely to need overnight, and prepare a picnic for moving day.
- ☐ Have a large enough cash 'float' available to deal with unexpected expenses, and make sure you have collected documents and valuables together in a safe place.
- ☐ Cover carpets which are being left behind, so as to minimise damage during furniture removal.
- ☐ Check through previous lists to make sure nothing has been overlooked, then enjoy a worry-free early night!

2 ON MOVING DAY:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Pack items for washing/toiletries.
- ☐ Take down curtains.
- ☐ Take up rugs, carpets, floor coverings, as required.
- ☐ Dismantle any light fittings etc., not included in the sale.
- ☐ Turn off electric appliances.
- ☐ Disconnect cooker.
- ☐ Turn off boiler/central heating.
- ☐ Turn off water.
- ☐ Read gas meter.
- ☐ Read electricity meter.
- ☐ Secure all windows.
- ☐ Lock all doors.
- ☐ Leave key as arranged with new owners.
- ☐ On arrival at your new home, unpack slowly and methodically so that you can check for loss or damage.

3 EXTRA HINTS FOR A SMOOTH MOVE...

WHO TO NOTIFY:

- ☐ Banks.
- ☐ Building Societies.
- ☐ Credit companies.
- ☐ Insurance companies.
- ☐ Gas, Electricity and Water Boards.
- ☐ Telephone company.
- ☐ Local Authority (Rating Department).
- ☐ Driving Licence authorities.
- ☐ Inland Revenue.
- ☐ Store cards and accounts.
- ☐ Other lease, hire or rental companies.
- ☐ Employer.
- ☐ Doctor.
- ☐ Dentist.
- ☐ Schools.
- ☐ Professional Bodies/Trade Unions.
- ☐ Motoring organisations.
- ☐ Newsagent.
- ☐ Friends and relatives.

308 CC folding roof delight

THE 308 is a pretty appealing car from all angles, writes Iain Dooley.

Key to this is its streamlined profile. Lord only knows how the engineers and designers did it, but they've managed to accommodate the complexities of the folding roof and give the car an elegant stance. The 308 CC looks especially good from the rear – something that's hard to do at the best of times.

There are no surprises inside the 308 CC, although this is not a bad thing. Just like the hatch it's based on, the CC cabin looks like a quality item from a sector above its price. Cast your eye around this 308's interior and the build quality is nothing short of impressive. The same is true of the overall design and ambience. Sure, it's pretty much the same as a high-end 308 hatch but, somehow, it gains something extra in the transition from five-door to drop-top.

Peugeot appears particularly bullish when asked about the 308 CC. Granted, there's a reputation to uphold, although the success of its predecessors is no accident: an attractive product, something that's good value and practical.

That last part is important; the concept of a folding metal roof is now a widely accepted one, yet it's only when experienced first hand do you fully appreciate its all-weather robustness. It'll keep the bad weather and the vandals out and puts the coupe into coupe cabriolet. Best of all, it can be retracted electrically while creeping along in traffic in around 20 seconds. Wind noise at speed is pleasingly low, which is all that matters. Like when with the roof up, the car behaves in a smooth, refined manner. The added bonus being that it – and you – look pretty darn stylish.

For all the stylish overtones, can Peugeot's 308 CC walk the walk? Fortunately it can, which should please fans of the marque. Don't expect a honed, sports car-like experience, though. The 308, like many rivals, isn't tuned to deliver performance thrills. Think of it more like an affordable drop-top GT and you'll be closer to its core character.

Save for the poorest condition roads, the 308 CC copes admirably with rough surfaces. The sophisticated and supple ride is most noticeable when travelling at speed and, despite its GT-esque character, isn't adverse to being driven in spirited fashion on your local B-road.

It helps to have a few good engines to choose from, and Peugeot's mix of petrol and diesel units should keep most people happy. Most should be familiar to anyone on nodding terms with the 308 hatch. The 308 CC is a substantial car, so you'll be wanting one of the more powerful offerings if you want to make life easy.

If diesel isn't your thing, the 143bhp turbo 1.6-litre petrol motor is especially nice. Smooth, quiet and responsive, it's everything an engine for a convertible should be. Add an auto gearbox and you're all set for a leisurely weekend drive. The diesel choices might save a few pennies at the pump, but cars like the 308 CC are always purchases driven by the heart, not the head.

Factor in a generous amount of standard kit plus a wealth of tempting optional extras – neck-level heating elements, anyone? – and it's hard not to like the 308 CC.

Basically

This drop-top 308 proves that Peugeot still knows what it takes to produce an attractive, practical and affordable convertible for the masses.

Four-seat electric C1 ev'ie is a first

THE UK's first four-seater electric car, with a range of 60-70 miles, was launched last week. But the 60mph vehicle, called the Citroen C1 ev'ie, will set purchasers back £16,850.

Made in Bedfordshire by the Electric Car Corporation (ECC), the car is based on the Citroen C1 and is available now.

The C1 ev'ie can be fully charged in 6-7 hours from a domestic 13-amp socket at a cost of around 90p, with ECC saying that it will make an ideal city car for either professional or domestic use.

The company aims to produce 500 C1 ev'ies over the next year, rising to between 2,000 and 4,000 units in 2010, depending on demand and Government support.

Citroen UK managing director Xavier Duchemin said: "We are committed to providing greener alternatives for motorists and are delighted to be supplying ECC with C1s for this exciting project."

ECC chief executive David Martell said: "We believe this is the first serious alternative to a petrol or diesel car. It drives just like a petrol car and has excellent capacity for use in any town or city in the UK."

"The key to building a successful electric car is an efficient battery management system. ECC has developed an advanced and sophisticated system which, when coupled with regenerative braking, can provide the driver with much greater range and better performance."

ECC is on 0207 402 4334 or at www.theelectriccarcorporation.co.uk. The Citroen C1 ev'ie: On sale.

The Kia Magentis: What you get when you buy used is "comfort, space and lots of kit".

Mileage is key to used bargains

THE mileage of a used car is the biggest lever in terms of saving money when haggling over price.

That's the advice from Matthew Tumbridge, editor of Used Car Expert magazine, who says it often gives you many clues about how the car was used.

"A nearly new car with mileage well above average means lots of motorway miles – it is the only way to get a lot of miles on a car that quickly," says Tumbridge.

"But motorway miles are light on a car in wear terms, because there is little braking and less sitting in queues with the clutch straining.

"If the seller doesn't know that, then you can puff out your cheeks, shake your head, and insist on money off for the mileage," he says.

In most cases, used petrol engine cars have fewer miles on the clock than diesels, as today's high mileage drivers almost always go for diesel.

"But if you don't know the difference between a diesel's average miles and a petrol's average miles, you can overpay, thinking the petrol variant is low mileage."

Here, Tumbridge lists three cars where knowing the average mileage can give the edge in car buying:

■ Kia Magentis: "Executive style, but few in circulation. What you get is comfort, space, and lots of equipment," says Tumbridge.

Used Car Expert magazine says a year 2001 2.5 V6, with just 45,000 miles on the clock, can be yours for £1,000 to £1,200. With another 50,000 miles of reliable life left, it is a bargain to buy – but thirsty on fuel, at just 26mpg.

■ Ford Mondeo: "A truly great family car, now around in huge numbers at low prices," Tumbridge says.

Used Car Expert magazine prices a year 2001 2.0 Zetec S, with 70,000 miles on the clock – which should mean 20,000 more reliable miles – at just £1,700 to £1,900.

■ Renault Laguna: "Still attractive, it is a great-value family hatchback. The cabriolet is timeless, and the best used buy right now," he says.

Used Car Expert magazine reckons a year 2000 16v Renault Mégane Dynamique, with average mileage of 70,500, should still have 20 to 30,000 miles' reliable use, and cost between £1,500 and £1,800. Cabriolets are £300 more, but usually show 10,000 miles less on the clock, too.

The Renault Laguna: A "great-value family hatchback".

He wouldn't get Swift insurance!

ROCK star Iggy Pop's advertisement for car insurance breached the rules because musicians were not covered by the policy, according to an advertising watchdog ruling.

At the time the advert was shown, Swiftcover excluded people working in the entertainment industry from taking out its car insurance.

But during the television clip Iggy Pop leaps around the screen declaring: "I got it Swiftcovered. I got insurance on my insurance!"

The Advertising Standards Agency received 12 complaints from viewers who said it was misleading to suggest that Iggy Pop had insurance with Swiftcover.

The advertisers said they had selected Iggy Pop because of his reputation for living life to the full and not his occupation. They added that Iggy Pop did not state in the advert that he had a Swift policy.

But the ASA upheld the complaint saying that Iggy Pop's words in the advert could be interpreted to mean he did hold a policy.

It ruled that the advert must not be broadcast again in its current form. Swiftcover has since made insurance available to musicians for the first time.

Which means Iggy should be able to get a life – or at least a policy.

Helping hand: ContiComfortKit means you needn't worry about getting into serious difficulties if a puncture takes place.

Back on the road in seven minutes

IT'S May Day bank holiday and you've set off in the car for a day out. With smiles all round, the last thing you want to happen is a punctured tyre which leaves you changing a wheel or waiting for the rescue service.

Well now there's a fast'n'easy solution which can get you back on the road in just seven minutes.

Tyre manufacturer Continental has created the ContiComfortKit – a compact, portable compressor device which connects to a vehicle's cigarette lighter. The new technology works by filling the tyre with a mixture of liquid sealant and air, temporarily repairing the puncture and enabling you to drive to a garage for your tyre to be repaired by professionals so that you can resume your journey.

The ContiComfortKit allows you to drive at up to 50mph for another 125 miles. In-built illumination makes the kit easy to use at night.

The ContiComfortKit retails at £59.99. Once used, a replacement tube and sealant can be bought for £14.99. Find your local retailer at www.conticomfortkit.co.uk.

Nissan's GT-R in Marshall star turn

THE multi-award winning Nissan GT-R has earned yet another accolade, this time collecting the 2009 World Performance "Car of the Year" title.

Chosen as the winner from an initial entry list of 23 contenders from 25 countries, the GT-R wowed the judges with its pace and agility. World Car of the Year's panel of journalists, which includes Nat Barnes, Peter Burgess and Mike Rutherford, concluded that "the R35 throws even former GT-Rs into the weeds via an all-new 3.8-litre twin-turbo V6 providing 485 horsepower and 588Nm of torque. The drive of the GT-R, especially on a track, reveals an incredibly flexible all-wheel drive chassis."

The judges were so enamoured by Nissan's performance flagship that they were moved to suggest that "for $77,000 (from £56,795 in the UK) it may be the world's best enthusiast car".

"We've received some great awards here in the UK and it's particularly satisfying that the same sentiments are felt by leading motoring journalists from around the world in the shape of the WCOTY jury," comments Paul Willcox, managing director Nissan GB. "We've always said that the GT-R delivers a unique blend of outstanding, accessible performance, advanced technology and everyday practicality, and despite being up against some formidable contenders, the WCOTY judges clearly recognised those same qualities and its unmatched specification in this market sector."

"It's undoubtedly also the view of enthusiasts in the UK where demand is such that those ordering one now can expect to wait at least a year for their car."

Since the order books opened in April last year, Nissan has taken 1,250 deposits for the GT-R. The first UK buyers took delivery of their cars at the beginning of last month from the special UK network of 11 High Performance Centres.

One of the high performance centres is at Marshall Nissan in Cambridge. Call (01223) 377000 for details.

Award winner: The Nissan GT-R.

Breaking up ain't hard to do

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF)

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility.

ROAD TRAFFIC REGULATION ACT 1984 - SECTION 14(1)(a)

THE A14 TRUNK ROAD (M1 JUNCTION 19, LEICESTERSHIRE TO EXNING INTERCHANGE, NEWMARKET, SUFFOLK) (TEMPORARY RESTRICTION AND PROHIBITION OF TRAFFIC) ORDER 200

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Secretary of State for Transport intends to make an Order on the A14 Trunk Road between Junction 19 of the M1 in Leicestershire and Newmarket in Suffolk, to allow for the installation of variable message signs, foundations and associated ducts, cabling and control cabinets to be carried out in safety.

It is expected that the works would take overnight only (8pm-6am) covering 29 locations between Monday 1 June 2009 and Thursday 1 October 2010. The Order would come into force on 25 May 2009 and have a maximum duration of eighteen months.

The effect of the Order would be to -

- impose a 50 miles an hour speed limit, in conjunction with lane closures, on the eastbound and westbound carriageways of the A14 from its junction with the western roundabout at the M1/M6/A14 Catthorpe Interchange (Junction 19), Leicestershire, including the circulatory carriageway of that roundabout, to the centre point of the under bridge at the A14/A142 Exning Interchange (Junction 37), Newmarket, Suffolk;
- prohibit vehicles with an overall width exceeding 4.1 metres from the length of trunk road described at (a) above (directing them to wait in a designated layby to be escorted through the works); and
- prohibit vehicles from entering or proceeding -

- in the A14 eastbound exit slip road leading to Rothwell Lodge, Rothwell Road (Junction 6), diverting vehicles to the Kettering North Roundabout (Junction 7) where they would join the westbound carriageway of the A14 back to exit at Junction 6;
- in any layby adjacent to the eastbound or westbound carriageway, or
- through a gap in the central reservation,

of the length of trunk road described at (a) above.

The work would be carried out in 7 phases (4 - 6 weeks at each location) with the restrictions and prohibitions limited to a 4 kilometre length of trunk road at any one time.

Traffic signs would indicate the extent of the speed limit (which would not apply to emergency service vehicles), width restriction, layby and gap closures (which would not apply to works, emergency service or traffic officer vehicles).

Cambridge Research Institute Director of Operations

Competitive salary

Europe's top cancer charity, Cancer Research UK, has combined with the University of Cambridge to create the world class Cambridge Research Institute (CRI) situated on the Addenbrooke's Biomedical Campus in Cambridge.

The Institute's research ranges from basic cancer biology through translational research to clinical application. The Institute currently houses 300 researchers and contains brand new state-of-the-art research facilities.

The CRI is looking to appoint a Director of Operations offering an exciting leadership opportunity within a dynamic research Institute. The primary purpose of the role is to provide the Scientific Director with the administrative infrastructure and support to ensure the smooth running of the Institute. This will involve developing and delivering initiatives to drive forward the scientific direction of the Institute. As the Director of Operations you will have overall responsibility for staff recruitment, general staff and financial management, supervision of service laboratories and academic administration through the management of the academic committees.

You will have experience of management within an academic, research or clinical setting and an appropriate management qualification would be advantageous. A post graduate qualification in a scientific discipline, ideally biology or medical sciences would be highly desirable. You will have proven experience of business planning including budget setting, IT provision, facility and people management. Experience of managing a large budget is essential. You must have the ability to work constructively, collaboratively and productively with colleagues at all levels within the CRI and across Cancer Research UK.

Previous applicants need not re-apply.

You can find out more about the Cambridge Research Institute and apply for this role by visiting www.cambridgecancer.org.uk

Closing date for applications is 20 May 2009.

Partnership Development Manager

3 year fixed term contract starting May/June 2009

A joint bid by Cambridgeshire Advice Agencies has been successful in winning 'Advice Plus' Big Lottery funding for a new project 'Cambridgeshire Advice Hubs'.

This project aims to increase access to independent legal advice services across the County.

Based in Cambridge but covering the whole County, we are looking for someone who will manage a project to develop "one stop shops" or Mini Hubs via the brand of the "Advice Hub".

The three key objectives of the model are to:

- Increase access to core/generalist services.
- Ensure a full range of specialist level services for all clients who need them not just the select few.
- Make the best use of resources through efficiencies achieved by sharing knowledge across partnerships.

The Project Manager will be responsible for overseeing the project and delivering the business plan - in particular that person will be setting up common processes and procedures between partners.

The post will be employed by Cambridge CAB.

Salary is on point 33 NJC scale £27,573 full time and there is a 5% pension contribution.

For further information, job description, person specification and application form, please email janeh@cambridgecab.org.uk

Your CV

When you send your CV off to a potential employer, remember that you won't be the only one. Hundreds of other people could be applying for the job as well.

So what are you going to do to make you stand out from the crowd? Why should an employer take a chance on you instead of someone else?

Your CV is your first real chance to sell yourself to a potential employer. Most employers will scan through a CV in about 30 seconds so you need to grab their attention from the start - and make them want to invite you for an interview.

There are five main areas to consider when writing your CV:

- Make sure your CV looks the part. Your CV should look clean and tidy - don't scrawl it out on a piece of A4 paper. If you haven't got access to a PC or printer, ask a friend or use your local library. Use a good quality paper and steer clear of fancy borders and front covers.
- Watch out for silly spelling and grammar mistakes. They make you look lazy and show employers that you don't really care. It's not difficult to do a spell check on your PC and if you're really stuck then don't just guess, reach for a dictionary. Get a friend to read through your CV for you - a second opinion is always useful.
- Make sure your CV is well organised. When you list your previous jobs, make sure the dates are correct and try not to leave any gaps. If you took time out to go travelling then say so - employers won't mark you down just because you've tried something new.
- Don't waffle. Remember that employers don't have time to read every word of your CV. Long paragraphs and sentences put people off, so try bullet-points to break up text. Make sure your CV is no longer than two pages long - employers don't want your life history, they just want to see that you've got what it takes to do the job.
- Don't list any failures. Employers have enough trouble finding someone who is right for the job - they don't need help finding reasons not to employ you. If you have to include a mistake from your past, make sure you show the employer that you learnt something from the experience.

Keep it simple

Personal details

Start off with your full name, address, date of birth, home and mobile phone numbers, email address and nationality. If you are offered an interview, the employer will want to get hold of you so give him as many options as possible.

Summary/professional profile

This is the No1 area for selling yourself. Set out your main skills and personal qualities but keep it interesting and tight - one paragraph should do to cover everything.

Education and qualifications

List your qualifications and education history, with the most recent first. You don't need to list the grades for each exam you have passed unless they were exceptional results - simply listing the number and type of exams you've passed is fine. Also, list any relevant professional organisations you belong to and training courses you have been on.

Work experience

Start with your most recent position and work backwards, giving addresses along with start and finish dates. Set out your main responsibilities, duties and most importantly achievements, along with any skills you picked up or improvements you made while you were there. This is a really important section in your CV so make it count - but don't waffle.

If you have not had a full-time job before, detail any part-time jobs you may have held or any placement you have been on.

Other skills

Set out any computer skills you may have and the software you are most familiar with. Can you type, do shorthand or speak a foreign language fluently? If you have a driving licence, let the employer know. If it's clean, tell them.

Interests & hobbies

Briefly list what you get up to in your spare time. Put down any positions you hold in clubs or associations, along with any responsibilities and achievements.

References

Make sure you have at least two people (including one from your previous or current job) who will tell an employer what a thoroughly nice person you are and what a potential asset to the company you would be.

If you want to list them now make sure you include their name, job title, postal & e-mail address and contact phone numbers. Alternatively, just put "Available on request" so the employer knows to follow up references at a later date.

Add a covering letter

The main aim of a covering letter is to encourage an employer to give you a chance. You want them to read your CV, so sell it to them. You should always enclose a covering letter when applying for a job - most employers won't consider you unless you do.

A covering letter should let the employer know why you are interested in the job and why you think you can do it.

The hints and tips below should point you in the right direction:

- Keep it simple. A covering letter should be short and to the point - no more than six paragraphs.
- Mention the job. If you are replying to an advert, mention what the job is and where you saw it. The company may be advertising for other positions and it may not be clear which job you are applying for.
- Sell yourself. Explain why you are the perfect candidate for the job. Show off your strengths and experience. Refer to your CV - if it goes missing then at least an employer will know that you've sent it.
- Check it for mistakes. A silly spelling mistake in a covering letter is likely to cost you your chance of getting an interview. Also, make sure it is addressed to the right person in the right department.

A covering letter can be just as important as a CV in getting you an interview. It's your first point of contact with your potential employer - so make it count.

ATHLETICS

White on the money

NEWMARKET Joggers notched a double first at the Cambridgeshire Bartlow 8½-mile cross-country challenge. Ursula White won her first race of the season, leading the women's team to victory in their section.

White crossed the line in 63min 26sec as did fellow Scot and team-mate Jim Copeland.

Joggers' new recruit Anna Eaton finished in 71.54 alongside Alan Goodenough, while Anita Buxton (75.25) and Maxine Copeland (90.29) completed the team.

■ A week after recording a personal best in the London Marathon, Newmarket Joggers' Ben Blowes finished 36th in the Great East Anglian 10k at King's Lynn, a race which attracted a field of 1500 runners. Other Joggers to compete included Sandie Jardine (748th in 53min 29sec) and Dave Price (1:00.21).

■ Newmarket Heath Run will be held tonight (Thursday) at 7.30pm and is open to all runners of any ability.

There is also a children's race (7pm) but all entries close at 6.45pm. Further information from Carolynn Anderson on 01638 731160.

Cup joy for Town

NEWMARKET Town bounced back from conceding a first-half goal to win the Knockout Cup.

Town (above) only started to find their feet after the goal and Todd Sparrow was unlucky to have his goal before the break chalked off.

But they turned on the style after the interval and deservedly equalised when Josh Parnell headed Tom Sykes cross into the net.

And soon after they were in front, Jack Nunn volleying home a near-post corner.

With the midfield of Olly Pleasant and Harvey

Medus working tirelessly Newmarket looked capable of extending their lead. However, when Sykes had the ball in the net it was disallowed for offside.

Several other chances went begging and Town were almost dragged back to level terms when a long-range shot bounced over keeper Max Ward but luckily cleared the bar. CP

Adams fury as 'two-man' Tigers crash

Scunthorpe 57 Mildenhall 38
National League

MILDENHALL team manager John Adams has told his riders in no uncertain terms that Saturday's effort at Scunthorpe was unacceptable and will not be tolerated again.

The Fen Tigers recorded just two race victories in their heaviest defeat so far this season and lost their hold on the top of the National League to rivals King's Lynn.

Barrie Evans (the only race winner), Dean Felton, Oliver Rayson and Joe Jacobs were devoid of Adams' criticism as the finger was firmly pointed at struggling heat-leader pair David Mason and Mark Thompson.

"It was a poor performance and I won't have a repeat," warned Adams. "I am not happy at all – we have got to be competitive away from home."

"We have set a target to reach the play-offs and we will not achieve that if we perform like that."

"We were a two-man team, with Barrie riding exceptionally well, and Dean had a cracking match. The two young reserves did their best and I thought Joe rode very well as he was quite nervous seeing the track for the first time."

"I will be speaking with Ray (Mascall, promoter) and we will have a chat on how to tackle the issues."

"After this coming Sunday's home meeting (against Rye House) we have a break and we will look at what we can do then."

Scunthorpe – Hart 14 (5 rides), Bekker 11+3 (5), Franklin 9 (4), Richardson 7 (4), Wrathall 6+1 (4), Sarjeant 6 (4), Howarth 4+2 (4).
Mildenhall – Evans 12+1 (5 rides), Felton 10+1 (6), Mason 5 (4), Thompson 5 (5), Rayson 3+1 (5), Jacobs 3+1 (5).

Caine's so able

MICHAEL Caine put himself firmly in contention for the Porsche Carrera Cup GB with a win and second-place at Thruxton.

The Newmarket racer now lies third overall, just five points behind leader Tim Bridgman.

Caine's victory was in the second of the weekend's two races and he said: "I knew my car wasn't as good as Tim's (Bridgman) in the early laps. So I just held on. But then my car was very good mid-race."

Earlier, Caine had to be content with second behind Tim Harvey in the first race as a build-up of rubber on one of his tyres forced him to ease off the accelerator and settle for second.

CRICKET

Atwell ton holds up Burwell

ANTONNEL Atwell was the difference as Burwell had to settle for a draw at Foxton in the Tucker Gardner Cambs and Hunts Premier League, Division One. Atwell took four wickets and then hit an unbeaten century to frustrate Burwell's attack as they defended 288 for 9, earned by Paul Redfern's 70 and 84 from Paul Summerskill. Atwell took 4 for 82 and Paul Dean 4 for 71, but the former's unbeaten 114 was the key when Foxton replied. He held them together as Mark Bissett and Adam Huckle took three wickets each to reduce the home side to 268 for 9. In Division Two, Fordham lost by five wickets to Bluntisham, who chased down 129. Opener Mark Silcock scored with 32 as Fordham suffered against Graham Parks (5 for 28) and Howard Mathson (3 for 31). Bluntisham easing home by five wickets.

Mark Geeves and Chris Lomas helped Exning to a 147-run thrashing of Elmstead Grasshoppers in Division One of the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship. Richard Ford hit 34 early on, but the hosts were struggling on 140 for 5 before Geeves (83) and Lomas (78 not out) put together a stand of 135 for the sixth wicket to take the side to 318 for 7.

Slow bowler Kent Tomsett took 4 for 38 and Lomas 3 for 17 to dismiss Grasshoppers for 171. Alex Reynolds carried his bat to lead Mildenhall to victory by five wickets in their top-flight clash at home to Abberton.

Abberton set a target of 215 for 7, but opener Reynolds made an unbeaten 60 in reply as they reached 216 for 5 with four balls to spare.

SWIMMING

Newmarket at their best

Stretching out: Newmarket's Alex Fussey on the way to another personal best.

SPO547954

THE Newmarket club moved into uncharted waters when it hosted its inaugural open meeting at its new home at Exning Leisure Centre.

More than 200 swimmers from clubs as far afield as Kent took part in the event, with Newmarket marking the historic occasion in style by recording the highest points total.

Molly Reeder was the club's top performer and finished third top girl but there were some encouraging individual performances from her team-mates, with 114 personal best times.

Alex Fussey swam in 12 events and notched a PB in every one. Nine of the 12 were qualifying times for the development championships that take place in June.

Molly Ollington improved on eight of her times, seven of which booked her place in the development championships as well.

Ashley Trent again performed well and clocked regional qualifying times, which means the 11-year-old has regional times in every event except the 200m butterfly.

Sam Minns recorded his first regional qualifying time and Braddan Westlake added another two to his tally. Sean Collier and Reeder also impressed with personal bests.

Newmarket coach Annette Skeet was delighted with her team's display.

She said: "What a fantastic weekend. There was such a good atmosphere and outstanding results."

Dave Metcalf, ASA East Region president, presented the trophies at the end of the meeting.

Although Newmarket were top scorers, they had to stand aside when the shield for the top visiting club was presented, with UEA, City of Norwich, taking the honours.

DARTS

Crown-ing glory

THE Crown from Burwell head to Drayton Manor on Friday hoping to lift darts' equivalent of the FA Cup.

Their six-man team face 15 rivals from all over the country aiming to lift the Courage Best Pub Team title and, with it, the lion's share of the £16,000 prize fund.

The Crown, who started their campaign almost seven months ago, beating teams from Cambridge, Northamptonshire and Suffolk en route to becoming the eastern counties' champions, will not be travelling in the Midlands on their own. They will be backed by a coach-load of more than 50 regulars and skipper Ian Taylor said: "I am proud of how the team have responded over the last few rounds to make the finals. Also we would like to thank everyone for their support – the team are overwhelmed at how many supporters will be making the effort to come and cheer us on."

View hated the ground – Gosden

JOHN Gosden admitted he could have withdrawn Rainbow View from the stanjames.com 1000 Guineas because of the going.

Speaking after the unbeaten odds-on favourite was a well-beaten fifth behind 20-1 shot Ghanaati in the fillies' Classic on the Rowley Mile on Sunday, Newmarket-based Gosden said: "She hated the ground."

"It's nobody's fault. We've had an incredibly dry spring here and I'm afraid Jimmy (Fortune, the jockey) said after three and a half to four furlongs she was in trouble."

"I have to be honest with you, if she wasn't the odds-on favourite I probably wouldn't have run her."

"I think she will go for the Oaks, but she is in the Irish Guineas and if she can get her toe in then she might run there."

The other disappointment was the performance of second-favourite Serious Attitude, who looks set for a sprinting career after failing to stay the mile.

The winner, however, looks bound for a big-race campaign after clocking up the 11th Classic win for veteran trainer

We've only Ghan and done it: Richard Hills celebrates his 1000 Guineas win on Ghanaati.

Barry Hills, whose son Richard blitzed the field on the Hamdan Al Maktoum-owned three-year-old.

Hills said: "She is in the Oaks. It is too early to say about the Breeders' Cup but at the back of my mind I could see her winning the Champion Stakes, although there a few more races before that."

The 2000 Guineas belonged to the Irish, Mick Kinane giving John Oxx's Sea The Stars an impeccable ride on Saturday. Next stop for the 8-1 shot is Epsom and the Derby, with Oxx saying: "We have discussed it, and the Derby is the plan. When things calm down we will talk about it again, but I see no reason to change."

"There is a question about stamina, as there is within any Guineas winner going to the Derby. It is a big prize, it's a great race and to win it with a Guineas winner is a rare enough things these days. It's a prize worth pursuing."

It's the High life as Cowell spices it up

LITTLE-KNOWN Newmarket trainer Robert Cowell was left dreaming of Royal Ascot after High Spice made an impressive debut at his local track on Sunday.

Cowell has the filly for Khalifa Dasmal - the owner of 1996 Derby winner Shaamit - and she made all the running under Eddie Ahern in the stanjames.com Maiden Stakes.

Cowell beamed of his 10-1 winner: "Eddie has ridden her at home and has said she is a top-hat-and-tails filly, so we'll be heading to Royal Ascot now."

"From day one she was a complete natural and has shown plenty of ability. We may go for the Queen Mary but we'll see."

■ Jockey Ryan Moore admitted there was very little in the way of opposition for Heaven Sent, although she readily completed a repeat victory in the stanjames.com Dahlia Stakes as the 4-11 favourite.

Moore said: "That was one of the weakest Group Threes I've seen, but it was her first run of the year and she'll come on for that."

■ Bronze Cannon could be aimed at the Princess of Wales' Stakes at Newmarket's July Festival after a shock success in the stanjames.com Jockey Club Stakes on Saturday.

All the talk beforehand was of last year's Derby third Casual Conquest, who was making his seasonal re-appearance and looked to be a shoo-in when the already-small field was reduced to three after Spanish Moon refused to go into the stalls.

But Casual Conquest, who started off odds-on favourite, could not make any impression on Bronze Cannon, who romped in at 7-1 under a determined ride from Jimmy Fortune.

Trainer John Gosden said: "He's a brave horse, a streetfighter. I thought he'd run a big race in the King Edward VII at Royal Ascot last year but he got hurt in the race and was out until the autumn."

■ Gosden's Take The Hint (15-2) could be heading for the Oaks after defeating Three Moons by a length and a quarter in the stanjames.com Pretty Polly Stakes.

Gosden said: "She is in the Oaks and she will either run there or in the Ribblesdale at Royal Ascot with no other race in between. The jockey (Fortune) would prefer the Ribblesdale but we'll see."

■ Royal Ascot could be on the cards for Jeremy Nosedá's Your Old Pal, the 13-2 winner of the Listed stanjames.com Newmarket Stakes.

Huff gets on a Moroccan roll

ROB Huff got his World Touring Car Championship campaign up and running with a win and a third place in Marrakech.

The 29-year-old Red-Lodge-based driver emerged with 16 points from the championship's Moroccan debut and will feel confident of closing the 27-point gap to championship leader Yvan Muller.

His victory – the first for the new Chevrolet Cruze – was a pole position to flag effort, and his third place in the second race was equally impressive.

After starting in eighth, he scythed through the field and was delighted to join team-mate Nicola Larini, who registered his first win for Chevrolet, on the podium.

Huff said: "This is brilliant for the Chevrolet team – it's been a great effort. I'm so pleased because everyone has worked so hard."

After qualifying on pole for the first race, Huff held his nerve, despite pressure from the SEATs and the early deployment of the safety car.

He said: "That was incredible. I thought if the SEATs got past me I'd be in real trouble."

Huff started eighth in the second race and after scything through the field was only prevented from taking second by defending champion Yvan Muller.

Hot wheel: Rob Huff hoists the trophy after winning the first race.

Six of the very best

Champagne moment: Newmarket celebrate after collecting the trophy.

Newmarket Tn 6 Swaffham Tn 0 Ridgeons League, First Division
NEWMARKET Town kicked off their First Division title celebrations in fine style with a thumping win over strugglers Swaffham Town in front of more than 250 fans.

Amazingly, the first half was goalless, but the hosts turned the screw in the second half, opening the scoring in the 46th minute.

Jon Olive struck twice, while efforts from Dave Grainger, Paul Benton, Andy Eady and an own goal completed the scoring.

After the match the team were presented with the First Division trophy, sparking more jubilant celebrations.

Chairman Kevin Grainger said: "It was a great win, we played really well in the second half."

"The whole team has done so well this season. I'm especially pleased for some of the older lads at the back who were criticised at the start."

"Their experience is one of the reasons we've come back into the Premier Division at the first attempt."

Mildenhall Tn 0 Kirkley & Pakefield 0 Ridgeons League, Premier Division
SIMON Charlton took plenty of positives from the goalless draw, not least the fact his side again kept out the opposition.

Despite missing Owen Paynter through suspension and Tom Youngs with a hamstring injury, Town matched Kirkley throughout and might have taken the lead if John Sands had made the most of two chances.

The debut of 16-year-old substitute Gavin Peacock was another cause for optimism.
